Stock up for the festive season. You'll find unbeatable deals on big brand and premium spirits, as well as wine, Champagne and much, much more in our onboard shop.

Say hello to some of our winter warmers

Mulled Wine

Heat a bottle of red wine in a saucepan with 2 orange halves, 2oz demerara sugar, a dried bay leaf and cinnamon stick until the sugar has dissolved. Stir in 60ml sloe or damson gin if you fancy. Take off the heat, strain into heatproof glasses and serve.

We recommend

Come the festive season, there's nothing better than a warming glass of spiced mulled wine. Good reds to use are young, bright, fruity and ideally unoaked. We suggest Villa Maria Private Bin Pinot Noir or Errazuriz Cabernet Sauvignon.

Hot Toddy

Bring a ¾ cup of water to a simmer and pour into a warmed mug. Add 1.5oz of whisky, 2-3 tsp of honey and 2-3 tsp lemon juice. Stir until honey has dissolved. Taste, add more honey for sweetness, more lemon for zing. Garnish with a lemon slice and cinnamon stick.

We recommend

Brandy, rum, and whisky all make an excellent base for the Hot Toddy, it's just down to personal taste or what you have on hand. Why not try Bell's Original Scotch Whisky? You can pick up 2 litres for just £12.50 each from the duty free shop.

Irish Coffee

Heat a tall, sturdy glass with boiling water and discard. Add 2 tsp brown sugar and a cup of piping hot coffee, blending until dissolved. Stir in a shot of Irish whiskey. Pour slightly whipped cream over the back of a teaspoon onto the coffee and up to the rim of the glass. Grate over a little nutmeg.

We recommend

Some might choose espresso coffee, but we think filter coffee gives a longer drink and doesn't overpower the smooth and mellow Irish Whisky – try Jameson Caskmates triple-distilled – just £29.99 onboard in the duty free shop.

For massive savings on UK prices, pick up your spirits, wine & Champagne in our onboard duty free shop

Pop the Prosecco

Once seen as the poor relation of Champagne, this fizzy celebration drink really has come into its own.

But what actually is the difference? So, they are both sparkling wines from particular regions: Champagne in northern France, and Treviso in north-eastern Italy, but the shared attributes end there. Champagne is dry with mature yeasty flavours and more expensive, whereas prosecco is soft, fruity, sweetish and more affordable. The lower price tag owes to the production method. Champagne is made by the méthode traditionnelle; a labour-intensive process where the bubbles are created during a secondary fermentation in the bottle. The secondary fermentation for prosecco takes place in large stainless steel tanks and this process is referred to as the charmat method. The main grapes used in the production of champagne are chardonnay, pinot noir and pinot meunier, whereas for prosecco it's the glera grape.

In a good prosecco you will find green apple, peach or citrus flavours and often some floral notes, too. With better examples you may notice flavours of almonds and biscuity champagne-like notes.

Prosecco facts

-  The lower price point makes Prosecco more popular than champagne!
-  Prosecco is used in iconic Italian cocktails such as the Spritz, Bellini, Rossini and the Mimosa.
-  Prosecco can only be produced in certain areas of Italy. It's a trademarked wine classified by DOC or DOCG. Only 25% of Prosecco production receives DOCG designation.

-  Not all prosecco is bubbly. Wines designated under DOCG are classified by their effervescence. 95% of Prosecco Superiore DOCG is Spumante (sparkling). The other two types include: frizzante (fizzy) a little less bubbly and Tranquillo (still).
-  Prosecco tastes better in a tulip glass. The wider base allows for the aromatics to be more prevalent - Italians believe you need to smell the wine to fully enjoy.
-  Aged Prosecco does not exist, Prosecco benefits from instant consumption whilst the acidity and fruit-forwardness are still fresh.

CHAMBORD

FRENCH BLACK RASPBERRY LIQUEUR

Chambord, captured in its iconic decadent spherical shaped bottle, is a premium black raspberry liqueur with a distinctly French heritage. And it makes a very regal champagne cocktail.

According to legend, in 1685 a visit from King Louis XIV to Château Chambord, where he tried a liqueur prepared from wild raspberries, inspired the making of Chambord Liqueur Royale de France.

Crafted in the province of Chambord, at the site of a real French château, there are three key steps to the creation of this superlative liqueur. Firstly, the world's finest blackberries and raspberries are selected, squeezed and soaked in French spirits for six weeks to allow their flavours to fully infuse. Next, the fruit is delicately pressed harnessing the natural juices and sugars to reveal a rich natural black raspberry fruit base. The finale is the work of the Master Blender who marries this velvety base to fine French XO cognac together with Madagascan vanilla extracts, Moroccan citrus peel and honey; left to mingle, the result is a beautifully balanced all-natural liqueur.

Show off with this easy to make, refreshing and stylish cocktail. First, pour the fizz – Champagne, Prosecco or Cava, as you like. Next, top with Chambord to suit your taste. Pop in the all-important raspberry.

If you're looking for a celebratory drink to have on hand over the coming season, Yellow Tail Bubbles is the perfect choice.

The sparkling white wine delivers aromas of vibrant, tropical fruits and freshly cut flowers, combined with zesty lemon, lime and citrus flavours on the palate. If your preference is something a little sweeter, then their pink bubbles will hit the spot, popping with soft floral aromas, hints of wild strawberries, red cherry and sweet musky notes, followed by a soft creamy palate thanks to millions of teeny tiny bubbles.

The Yellow Tail bubbles range comes with a unique resealable lid dubbed the 'zork', which keeps your bubbles fresher for longer and ensures a refreshing pop escapes the bottle each time it is opened.

Wines of the World

There's plenty to choose from when it comes to our handpicked selection of wines, from great value everyday wines to fine wines. Here's a round up of the countries we feature and some background to help you with your choices is now the 7th largest wine producer in the world. The popularity of Chilean wines has massively grown as they offer top quality across the price range. With over 20 grape varieties grown there, mostly of Spanish and French origin, Chilean wine offers something for everyone. Bright sunlight, pure air and healthy vines means Chile is a prolific source of classic grapes from Sauvignon to Cabernet (rated the best value in the world) as well as its unique Merlot-like signature red, Carménère.

▶ The United States

with its varied terrain and different climates means that it can offer the discerning wine drinker a range of superb and often good-value wines. Wine is produced in every state, however just five states play a truly significant role - California, Oregon, Washington, New York, and Virginia - with California producing the largest output at around 90%. The north coast region is the most famous (Napa Valley and Sonoma County) which produces top class Pinot Noir and Zinfandel.

▶ New Zealand

wines haven't been around for long (since the mid 20th century), but their impact has been huge. Their wine is produced in several mostly maritime, cool climate wine growing regions. New Zealand is most famous for its Marlborough Sauvignon Blanc with its distinctively crisp gooseberry flavours, and more recently its dense, concentrated Pinot Noir from Marlborough.

▶ Spain

is the third largest producer of wine in the world. There are hundreds of grape varieties grown including Tempranillo, Garnacha, Macabeo, Parellada and more. Spanish wine has grown over the last twenty years and now produces a diverse range of brilliant wines, from beautifully aged Reservas and Gran Reservas from famous regions like Rioja and less well known Valencia, to bright, modern whites like Albarino and Godello. And of course, Spain's Garnacha grape (Grenache) produces a fantastic rosé.

▶ Australia

is the world's fourth largest exporter of wine. There are 60 designated wine regions ranging across every state with the best wines tending to come from the cooler southern territories like New South Wales, Victoria, McLaren Vale and the Barossa Valley. All the wine regions produce different wine varieties and styles that take advantage of the particular Terroir such as: climatic differences, topography and soil types. The major varieties are predominantly Shiraz, Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay, Merlot, Semillon, Pinot Noir and Riesling.

is arguably the world's most important wine-producing country in terms of consumption and production. You have to admire the pure quality France offers, from some of the most expensive wines in the world to some great value offerings throughout the country. Classic French grape varieties are now grown across the globe but some of the best examples of Pinot Noir, Malbec and Chardonnay are still found in France.

The diversity of French wine owes much to the country's wide range of climates from Champagne, its most northerly region, with one of the coolest climates in the wine-growing world to the warm, dry Rhone Valley in the southeast and France's deep south, Provence and Languedoc-Roussillon which enjoys a Mediterranean climate of hot summers and mild winters.

MONKEY SHOULDER®

BLENDED MALT SCOTCH WHISKY

With an eye-catching bottle, intriguing name, irreverent attitude and a smooth, rich, mellow vanilla taste, Monkey Shoulder is a Scotch that leaps out from the whisky crowd. It is made as authentically as any Scotch, but Monkey Shoulder ditches all the stuffy rules, tedious whisky-drinking traditions and that hard-to-swallow-liquid which tends to put people off taking up whisky.

Triple malt

Most drinkers are familiar with single malt Scotch whisky, but Monkey Shoulder has broken new ground as the first triple malt Scotch whisky, a combination of three Speyside single malts. It is made from 100% malt – not a drop of grain is used.

Easy going deliciousness

Monkey Shoulder is characterised by its smooth and rich taste with hints of mellow vanilla. It gets this from the years all three single malts have spent maturing in American oak casks that have previously held Bourbon. After Malt Master Brian Kinsman has combined the single malts, the whisky spends a further three months marrying in a large vat to ensure consistency batch after batch.

The name

The unusual name 'Monkey Shoulder' harks back to whisky-making heritage. Years ago, distillery workers would shovel tonnes of malting barley hour after hour for long shifts. This hard work would sometimes cause their arm to hang down, a bit like a chimpanzee's. The men called this temporary affliction 'monkey shoulder' and so the whisky was named in their honour and for their hard graft.

Terrific taste

Traditional whisky tasting notes tend to be baffling and boring, but Monkey Shoulder likes to leave it up to you to enjoy it. It's up to your own tastebuds to pick out flavours, but we can definitely lend a hand by saying it's smooth and rich with a taste of mellow vanilla.

Suggested serves

No one will raise an eyebrow at how you want to drink Monkey Shoulder. There are no restrictions or rules; it can be enjoyed neat, on the rocks, mixed or in cocktails. One of our favourite recipes is the aptly-named Apes & Apples: take a hearty shot of Monkey Shoulder, fresh mint, a bucket load of ice and top it up with some sparkling apple juice for a lovely and refreshing taste sensation.

WHAT MAKES THE MAN

zippo®

One of the most recognised brands in the world, Zippo was founded in 1932 by George G. Blaisdell in Bradford, Pennsylvania, where it has manufactured over 550 million windproof lighters. With the exception of improvements to the flint wheel and modifications in case finishes, the product remains unchanged and is backed by the company's famous lifetime guarantee - 'It works, or we fix it free'.

Zippo windproof lighters have a standard case shape featuring rounded corners and top with a flat bottom. A five-barrel hinge joins the top and the bottom. The bottom stamp shows the Zippo logo from the period which authenticates this lighter as a genuine Zippo.
